History of use:	The property has been an industrial facility that has manufactured polymer emulsions and water-based adhesives at the site since 1974. Prior to the mid-1960s, the property was undeveloped farmland that was transferred between a variety of landowners. In 1973, the property was transferred to the Community Improvement Corporation of Greater Cincinnati where several utility and roadway easements were added to form the C.I.C Industrial Park. A small airfield was once located on the property.
